From the Club

That's right! It's the PGA Merchandise Show in Orlando and Dale and Ian will be walking themselves silly over the next few days to make sure they cover as much of the mammoth show room floor as possible.

How lucky are we to have them both there to bring back all the latest news and information on what's going to be available to us equipment wise this year.

Make sure you check out From the Golf Shop below, where the boys in the shop tell you why it's important to get your clubs custom-fitted!

We are looking forward to hosting Waterkloof this coming Sunday. Good luck gents!

The Jokers Wild Draw pot is R12 265!!

And that's before we add on what gets collected this week! With all the rain we've had, the golf course is now softer and the fairways are longer. One definitely doesn't get that much run anymore. What this means is that you may want to have a look at your set, more especially your driver, or whatever club you use off the tee.

You should check if your clubs are customised to your length, your strength and your swing speed. Why? Because this means you can carry your tee shot further and therefore you don't have to worry about that run anymore. Same applies to your irons. How long have you had them and if you have just bought them, did you get fitted?

Being fitted for your clubs means improvement to your game. With the correct lie angle and loft you will be able to get the right trajectory, drop and stop on the green, which is something that most of us need. Read the article below related to the importance of lie angles.

To ensure that you get your clubs fitted properly for your swing please visit us in the golf shop and set up an appointment for a custom fitting.

Revealing the lie

Manufacturers try and solve problems

Most golfers lose the ball to the right. So, some manufacturers make, especially their game improvement irons, with more and more upright lies. They're trying to find a solution to what MIGHT be a problem you have.

Research shows that for some golfers who lose the ball right, a more upright lie does change average ball flight.
It does however show that for some it has entirely different results.

Each of you is different.

Your spine tilt; knee flex; and how low or high you prefer the handle, will not only affect lie angle;

but potentially also shaft length.

And then there's your in-swing movement.

An inside path and outside path will probably create different lie angle needs.

But the only way to tell is an assessment

That's why we want you to start your journey to a better golf experience with a proper assessment.

Is your lie angle correct? Are your clubs making it harder to hit good shots?

Why not find out?

Book an assessment >

The best for you

Don't settle for what you have

There's a famous saying from Dr. Bob Rotella:

"Hit the shot you know you can hit, not the one you think you should."

Great advice for when you're on the golf course in competition.
But for most golfers, the implication of that is "most longer clubs stay in the bag forever".
Most golfers struggle with consistency when using fairway woods, hybrids, longer irons, and sometimes even mid-irons, so how do you apply this advice?
Do most of these clubs remain unused in the bag forever?

We have some sports psychology for you:

"This quarter, learn to hit a shot you can't hit consistently at the moment, and create more opportunities."

Get a better experience

By increasing the length of club that you can hit consistently from the fairway, you change your golf game.
Escape from difficult positions becomes easier. Setting up opportunity becomes easier.
Both of those lead to a better playing experience.
