The Masters...

Next week will present a very different Masters tournament than what we are used to. Autumn in Augusta as opposed to spring; no Par 3 contest and no patrons.

I have no doubt though that it will still be visually spectacular, as only Augusta National can deliver.

They will still be hosting their annual Champions Dinner on Tuesday and for the first time, Zwartkop will host our own version. Why not join us for a casual evening where we replicate their menu, answer some of your questions and watch the first round.

Our version of the Tiger Woods Champions Dinner

We will replicate the defending champion's dinner menu.
Dale Hayes, who played in the Masters three times, will chat about Augusta and the tournament. The TV's will be on so you can watch the start of this years final major.

Papwa Sewgolum Book Launch

Thursday, 19th November

Let me Play, The Sewshanker 'Papwa' Sewgolum Story is a new book by Barry Cohen. He'll be here at Zwartkop to share the story behind one of South Africa's golfing legends.

Review by Sujatha Boodhun:

"I have spent the better part of today reading your book. Prior to this, I have not read any books about Papwa and I must concede that I was the poorer for it - his story is one that filled my eyes with tears- and I'm not being cliched or dramatic. Well written Barry - I expected to be bogged down by golf scores and terminology and yet you managed to infuse the narrative with some really human moments that reflects your commitment to the game and your remarkable sense of humanity"

Sewsunker "Papwa" Sewgolum "Let me Play" Book Launch

Thursday 19 November
18h00 for 18h30

Congratulations

Congratulations to Corporate Member Gert Pretorius who had a hole-in-one on the 12th on Tuesday, 3rd November.

It's great to see the Zwartkop logo featuring at Royal Norwich GC in Norfolk in the UK, where one of our members, Nicholas Powell is now the Assistant Greenkeeper. We wish him the very best of luck in his new endeavour.

At Norwich GC in 1971, they hosted the Martini International Tournament part of the European Tour, John Hudson, then 25 years old, had two holes-in-one in a row. At the 11th hole, a 195-yard par-3, he holed a 4-iron, and on the following hole, a 311-yard par-4, he holed a driver. This is the only time in a professional golf tournament that a player has had two holes-in-one in a row. Hudson played on the European Senior Tour from 1995 - 2000 and is still the professional at River Hall Oaks Golf Centre in Whitham in Essex at the age of 75.

An easy way to improve your aim

Only golf test robots hit it dead straight every time. Yet many golfers begin every hole trying to do just that. This leads to dropped shots, higher scores and less fun. Dispersion patterns are easy to determine and once you understand them, you'll know where to aim to minimise your risk of landing in hazards or out of bounds.

Not sure what your dispersion pattern is? Let's get on the range and find out.

Discover your dispersion >

"Your dispersion pattern is the area that you usually land the ball. It makes club selection a lot simpler and improves your aim. For instance, when you know that you land your driver within a 40-metre area (dispersion), you'll have a much better idea of where to aim to give yourself the best chance of scoring. This applies through the bag."

Give yourself the best chance of scoring

A more enjoyable golf experience isn't only about improving your swing. Knowing how you usually hit each club in your bag makes a huge difference. We'll arm you with the knowledge to aim better and score lower.

A game for all
What does it mean to be 'a golfer'?

Do you only consider yourself 'a golfer' when you're shooting under 85? Or when you're driving the ball over 200 metres? Is the term 'golfer' reserved for men, while women are consigned to 'lady golfer'? No, no, and no. If you're on a golf course swinging a club at a ball, you're a golfer.

Get them involved

You don't need to be a certain age, gender, or have a specific skill level to be a golfer. But you do need an opportunity to start playing. Someone to introduce you to the game. Could you be that someone? If you have a relative, friend, or colleague who you think would enjoy being a golfer, why not gift them a lesson or bring them along to the course?

Invite them >
