Practice with purpose

A round on the range

During any round of golf you're going to face a variety of challenges that require different clubs. So it's a good idea to occasionally practise as though you were playing a round.

Play a round on the range

Start with a driver as your 'tee shot', then move onto an iron for the 'approach' and finally a wedge. Change the number iron with each cycle and remember to include your fairway woods too.

When playing a round on the range, make sure you play every shot as you'd play it during a round. That means including your pre-shot routine.

Practice makes permanent

Make sure you're working on the right things in practice.

Koepka joins Srixon and Cleveland Golf

After several years as an equipment-free agent, four-time major winner, Brooks Koepka, has chosen to play only Srixon-Cleveland equipment on Tour. He joins fellow major winner Hideki Matsuyama as part of Srixon-Cleveland's Tour Staff.

Shorten your long game

Longer clubs test your technique

Fairway woods and hybrids are the longest clubs with the lowest loft that you hit off the turf. Making solid, square contact with these clubs is challenging because they expose your technique. But once you know how to use them, they will transform your playing experience.

Set yourself the challenge to develop the understanding, technique and skill to play good fairway wood and hybrid shots off the turf.

*Learn the technique. Practise the drills. Take it to the course.
We're here to help you every step of the way.*

A trickle-down effect

Once you can play consistently good fairway and hybrid shots, how much better do you think you'll strike your mid-irons and general approach shots? How much better could your entire game become?
