From the course

Philani at Matko Golf Course Maintenance has this to report:

Hollow-tining has been done and it's been a success. The greens are recovering really well. On the 7th of February, we'll be dusting the greens again to smooth them out even more and to ensure all the holes from hollow-tining are filled.

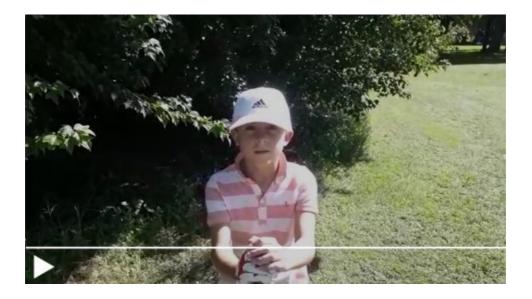

We have also completed the par-3 course greens. We hope they recover quickly so that you can get back to using them.

Many of the bunkers have no sand in them due to the floods. We have decided to fill some of them in, converting them instead to mounding, similar to what we did at the 1st and 10th. We will be targeting the one at the back of the 4th green, half the bunker to the left of the 8th green will be filled in, and then the bunker to the right of the 11th green will be turned into a mound.

Star of the week

Congrats to young Damian Ehlert, who just broke 90! We featured him not too long ago breaking 100, and he's just done it again – well done Damian!

If you want help breaking your goals whether it be 100, 90, 80 or even 70, then we have a golf professional who can help you do just that!

Let us help you play better golf

In this week's coaching video, Adam finds himself short-sided having to play a narrow chip over the bunker onto the green. His advice will help you next time you have to play this difficult shot.

Range finders have taken the golf market by storm, and there's now a new kid on the block, which we just happen to have in stock, called the Shot Scope.

There are three versions:

The first is the Shot Scope V3 GPS Watch, which comes in four colours. This gives you all the information you need – distance to the front and back of greens, plus the distance to the front and back of hazards. The distances are measured in either yards or metres, and they have 36 000 golf courses preloaded.

The price is R2 999, which is the best value for money out of all the products we've seen.

The second, Shot Scope V3 GPS Watch + Automatic Performance Tracking, has all the features of the first, but in addition, there's a tracking tag that fits onto the top of your grip, which gives you all the data of the shots you've played. You will be overloaded and overjoyed with the stats provided by this watch.

Priced at R3 999, it's once again fantastic value.

The third version is the Shot Scope Pro L1 Rangefinder, accurate to 0,1 yard. Scan the hole and get distances to tees, bunkers, or your preferred lay-up point. It comes with a very convenient carry case.

Priced at R3 399, it's once again great value.

Smallest club. Biggest impact

Overused yet underappreciated

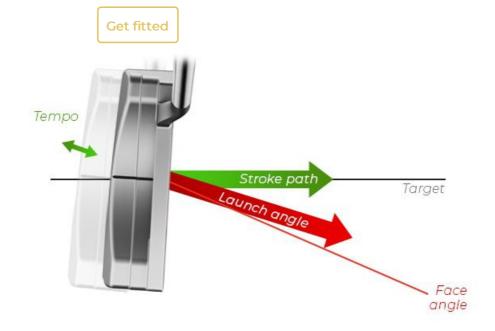

Nearly half of all your shots during a typical round are putts. You're only hitting driver, at most, 14 times. Yet the first thing most golfers think about when considering improvement, is "hitting longer drives". Putting better may not seem as exciting as driving further, but it can make a bigger impact on your scorecard.

Face Facts

Did you know, the face angle of your putter at contact influences the launch angle of your putt by up to 95%? That means, even if you have a textbook stroke path and rhythmic tempo, you'll probably still miss the putt if your face angle is too open or closed.

Hole more putts

Is your putter face square at impact? Where on the face are you striking the ball? Is your putter fitted to give you the best chance of holing more putts?

A fitting will help us answer all these questions for you.

Let's find out

Your swing speed isn't a limit

Is it possible to increase ball speed and distance without increasing swing speed? With the new Srixon Q-STAR TOUR, the answer is 'yes!'.
