Your golf ball in the 'Hall'

Tour Players enter the World Golf Hall of Fame. They provide us with lots of entertainment and sometimes inspiration. After a decade or more at the very top, then they're considered for the Hall of Fame.

But can we nominate a golf ball to the World Golf Hall of Fame? One that changed the game for the normal golfer. Possibly without the premium price tag, but stacked with premium performance that has delivered magic during millions of South African golf rounds.

| Making your magic happen

You want your golf ball to be ever present through your round. You want it to perform for you. Longer, more stable flight. Stopping power. Spin and control around the green. Srixon has options. Which option will perform best for you?

Let's find your option

How much better?

Most of us are very modest and humble but, for a moment, I'd like you to throw off the cloak of humility and answer in your head a few questions:

How do you rate (1 to 5, where 5 is a master of the game and 1 is poor) the different parts of your game? Your putting? Your short-game? Your approach play? Your longer iron and metalwood performance? Your performance off the tee?

With a little time, effort and focus, how much better do you think you could be? Two or three shots? More than five shots? Ten shots better?

To make that improvement, would you be making small improvements in every part of your game or, would a large improvement in just one part make the impact you're looking for? If it's the latter, which part of your game is that?

The final question

Does being better, or even the best you can be, matter to you with your golf game?

There are so many reasons to play and enjoy golf that it doesn't have to. But if it does; and especially if you think it would improve your love affair with golf, then please contact us and let's start a conversation about your golf game.
